

Teresa Russo is Aggregate Professor of International Organization at the Department of Legal Science (School of Law), University of Salerno since the academic year 2009/2010. Professor of the Ph.D. course in Legal Sciences, lasting three years, at the University of Salerno since 2013. She was visiting Professor of International Organizations at the University of Cadiz, she taught international organization and the EU law to the students of the Faculty of Law (2016). She was also guest Researcher at the Max-Planck Institut für Öffentliches Recht und Völkerrecht ausländisches and at the Walter Hallstein-Institut für Europäisches Verfassungsrecht - Humboldt University. She is member of the research unit of the University of Salerno: "Euro-Mediterranean Partnership: free trade area, the European Neighbourhood and Partnership Instrument (ENPI) and respect for human rights".